

A masterpiece ready to emerge

114 Maughan Street, Wellington

Sold

Work has commenced and the vision has not yet been realised and that's exactly the charm.

If you love sleek finishes, polished interiors and a home that's ready to move straight into, this probably isn't for you.

The walls are unapologetically bare, the living and kitchen areas offer all the warmth of a waiting room and the bathroom is, well, technically a room.

Its bedrooms remain untouched, while the floors are bare of coverings, that being said they are ready to go with whatever vision you have for them whether it be timber, tile or carpet.

This home is big, surprisingly big and its on a big block too – 695 square metres in area.

Something you won't have to do is re-sheet the roof, that's been done already.

There is an opportunity for someone who is more than just a renovator to make this classic period home shine with a broad smile.
